The Magyar was in better spirits to-day, having mostly reserved from the fatigue of his Rastern tour. He received visiters during the morning, when many of our eltisons visited him, and were introduced by the Mayor and Alderman Wassen. The German Association called in a body, and speeches were made in the German tan-few minutes before four o'clock. Governor Hunt's age drove in front of the private entrance of Congress and immediately Kossuth appeared in charge of a contered the carriage. Two other carriages, with amittee of the City Council, were also in readiness, sey drove off to the Presbyterian Church, the same d by Jenny Lind and Catherine Hayes. A small ted in front of the pulpis, upon which

All those little steps were vain. The people felt that it was time to become an independent mation; and feeling the necessity of the moment, it took a direction by itself and made the revolution by itself. Sow a days it is of an equally pregrant necessity to the United States to take the position of a sewer on earth. Nobody can hereafter make the popple believe that it is possible for America to remain unaffected by the condition of the Old World—to advise that the Luited States shall still abstrain from mixing up their concerns with those of Europe. Such advice may sound pleasantly, like the ceho of a song we loved to hear in our childhood. But the people's instinct is extremely practical. It is too well aware of the fact that, however wire might have been such advice it is outrue by facts, and no more possible to be followed; because the facilities of facterourse having pradigiously increased between the two countries, their respective commercial and political interests are already blended together in many respects. That is a fact which no wisdom no diplomatic dialect can unde. Therefore the question to be decided is not whether America shall mix its concerns with those of the Old World, because that is done. But, that being done, the question is, whether the United States shall take a seat in the great Amphile typonic connection the nations or not and whether it shall be permitted to zome crowned more the principles of our constitution, because its satisfance to arms be made on the quantum of civif and religious liberty, it is unaffect that the contract when any of civif and religious liberty, it is unaffect that the contract when the contract the contract and she made to the contract and she made the contract and she must not shrink back. —Thus wrote a learned American patriot as early as 1825; and he stands high, even to-day, in the estimation of his fellow-citizens; and no man ever charged him with being presumptuously arrogant for having shown such a perspective of coming necessities to America. His profound ragacity, pendering the logical issue of America's position has penetrated into the hidden mystery of future events; and he has seen his country summoned by God himself to fight in the vanguard for mankind's civil and religious liberty.

Kossuth spoke for about three-fourths of an hour, and was frequently applauded by those present.

It is not probable that over $1,000 were realized by this address. The whole amount collected by the Hungarian Association does not reach $600; and the entire pecuniary proceeds of his visit will not probably go go over $2,000—a sum scarcely sufficient to pay expenses.

THE PIFTH DISTRICT CONVENTION.

Last evening this convention again met at 120 East Preadway. There was great excitement, and a crowd of politicians. The first symptoms of any change or breaking up discovered themselves last evening. Aaron ing up discovered themselves lost evening. Aaron Sharp and W. W. Lyon. of the Thirteenth ward, were absent, and their places were supplied by Thomas W. Thorn and their places were supplied by Thomas W. Thorn and T. P. Haight, After several ballots, which were the same as on previous evenings, and after sundry tecesses, there were three ballots given for a new mandeln L. Lord—and three for John G. Freeborn, another new man both of the Seventh ward, and Scott men. On the last ballot the votes stood thus:—For Briggs (Thorteenth ward), seven votes; Coles (Williamsburg), six votes; and Waiter Underhill Seventh ward, and Chairman of the convention, six votes; thus dropping Aiderman Morgan Morgans, who all along, said he did not want to be the dilegate; but some observed that this was only Weth modesty. He has now however, been taken at his word and probably will not come up again. Joseph Hexie has been mentioned as a candidate though not proposed in the convention; but the Seventh ward people would not agree to it. Mr. Hexie is not very poppiar among the whige of the ward. The convention adjourned, without coming to any result, this Wednesday next.

NINETEENTH WARD.

As a proof of the foul play practised in the Nineteenth ward, one fact speaks volumes; the whole whig vote of the ward at the regular election is only 800; the vote for the Fillmore and Carnley ticket at the recent primary election was 1 200—more votes than are in the ward, whige and democrats combined.
